Omega Technology Solutions

Omega is committed to improving the health and welfare of organizations by combining trusted data solutions with innovative diagnostic testing.

As such, we are pleased to announce our acquisition of Acumium, a leading software development agency that specializes in custom design and technology solutions. Acumium specializes in providing leading brands with the highest level of trust and accountability in digital solutions.

This partnership further enhances Omega's ability to provide the highest level of risk mitigation while also prodividing more timely results for faster hiring decision.

Omega's clients in government agencies, workplace and healthcare rely on quality sample analysis for critical testing needs. This includes police and military, transportation and logistics providers, energy development and distribution, as well as clinical and recovery providers.

These employers count on Omega's rapid testing solutions (laboratory and instant) to make faster hiring decisions in a difficult labor market.

The addition of Acumium makes it even easier for our clients to use trusted Omega Technology Solutions for improved decision making. This includes Omega's innovative suite of tools including our online chain of custody system (oCCF), data integration capabilities and secure reporting services. These products are already in use by multinational companies that need to meet stringent regional data and accreditation standards while securing data in multiple languages.

Our technology solutions streamline processes, ensure accuracy, accelerate turnaround time, organize data, and secure it where you need it most.
